ACTION ALERT

FEBRUARY 2018

LABOR COUNCIL TO HOST WORKING PEOPLE'S DAY OF ACTION ON FEBRUARY 26TH

The U.S. Supreme Court will soon hear a case that will have a big impact on our voice at work. That's why working people across our country are making a clear stand to keep the freedoms that we've fought for.

Corporate lobbyists and special interest groups will argue a case against working people, Janus v. AFSCME Council 31, before the Supreme Court at the end of February. These are the same extremists voices that actively work to roll back voting rights, roll back economic protections, and gut civil and labor rights laws. They're ratcheting up their fight to break the Labor Movement because they know we are strongest together.

On Saturday, February 24th through Monday, February 26th, there will be days of action, with local events happening coast to coast, to defend our voice on the job and demand an end to an economy designed to favor the rich and powerful on the backs of working families.

The Beaver-Lawrence Central Labor Council and the Pennsylvania AFL-CIO will host a Working People's Day of Action rally on Monday, February 26th at the Beaver County Courthouse. The rally begins at 12:00 noon and will last one hour. It is one of the nine rallies that will be held in Pennsylvania during the days of action.

The Labor Council is requesting that all its 49 affiliates distribute the attached rally flyer to as many of their members as possible and ask them to attend the rally if they are able. We are also encouraging everyone to bring their families, tell their neighbors and invite their friends.

The Janus case threatens working people and the Labor Movement with nationwide "right to work." This threat is on a par with the impact of the breaking of the PATCO strike in 1981. Now is the time for working people to band together, hold the line on our freedom to join together to make improvements at work and to demand an economy that works for everyone.

For additional information on the rally please contact Labor Council Vice-President Kerri Theuerl at 412-651-3484.

For the Beaver-Lawrence Central Labor Council,
Rick Galiano, President
